A rumor is circulated that Premier Stambuloff's brother-in-law, M. Kuttkuroff, who recently died, committed suicide because of his complicity in the assamation plot. Speaking of the killing philinister Baltcheff, M. Stambuloff said: "I impened to step back or I should inevitably have been shot. BERLIN, March 30.—The Cologne Gasette commenting upon the murder of M. Baltcheff, the Bulgarian Minister of Finance, says today: "The importance of the Beltcheff murder is enhanced by the coincidence that the new agitation in Bulgaria has been traced to the Russians and the fact that papers related to the French Foreign Office declare that the mandate which the Constantinople conference granted to Prince Alexander, the deposed ruler of Bulgaria cannot be continued to Frince Ferdinand, the present ruler of that country."

Berlin, March 30.—The latest news in BERLIN, March 30.—The latest news in official circles here is the statement on what seems to be good authority that a truce has been entered into between Emperor William and Prince Bismarck. INCREASE OF SOCIALISM.

A prominent divine calls attention to the arease of socialism in Berlin and the need of some action to remedy it. The cause seems to be the great influx of population from values parts of Germany and the depression of rade during the winter, driving many to evit ourses. Berlin is overrun with strangers, and and women seeking employment, while here is not enough work for the resident opulation.

movement of Russian troops near the German frontier and the evidence of cordial intimacy between France and Russia have given rise to an apprehension of war which may cause military changes. The German Government has discovered that the Socialists have spread their doctrines throughout the army, and not only in Germany, but every Western continental army and navy except Russia's is honescombed with the idea of piedged antagonism to existing institutions. Austra, Beigium and Italy have been informed of the dangerous condition of the armies, and the Emberor has ordered that in Germany Social Democracy in the army be dealt with radically.

The Berlin newspapers dismiss the reported interview which the Marquis de Villenenve says took place in 1866 between the late Prince Napoleon and Prince Bismarck at which the latter is said to have proposed a combination of France and Prussia against Russia, and the rest of Europe as being a piece of absolute fiction evident from the fact that Prince Napoleon was not even in Berlin in 1866. A BILL TO CRIPPLE THE TRADE OF MONEY
LENDERS—THE PUBLIC SERVICE.
LODON, March 20.—The money lenders of London are stirred up over a bill in Parliament to cut off a lucrative part of their trade, that of advancing money to the minor children of wealthy and noble houses with the express understanding that several times the sum is to be paid to the lender when the minor becomes of age. Then when he comes into an estate, they threaten proceeding for perjury unless he pays. The bill not on ly makes it a crime for the money lenders to procure a crime for the money lenders to procure one of these amdavits, but also provides that one of these amawits, but also provides that even after a person has come of age, a promissory note executed wholly or partly for the money borrowed under age shall be void as to such money. This leaves the money lenders with no other protection than the honor of the borrower. The bill has the support of Lord Sallsbury, and will pass.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

The British foreign office has taken a departure in the matter of examinations for the public service, and in future there will be one examination qualifying for both the foreign and idiplomatic service. There is no likelihood, however, that there will be a change in the custom of filling vacancies with young and penniless scions of aristocracy, who cannot make a living in private life. In the army promotion is not one to a meritarious private. promotion is not open to a meritorious private soldier, but the sons of noblemen and gentle

MONTE CARLO FRESS BUREAU.

NICE, March 80.—A regular press bureau is maintained at Monte Carlo by and in the interest of the gambling establishment at that place. Most of the stories of large winnings and people breaking the bank are sent out by this bureau for the purpose of attracting wealthy tourists from Europe and America. The stories, it is said, have no foundatinn. The bureau is not permitted to send out reports of suicides and other cases of sudden deaths, except in very rare instances. The bureau was started as a permanent department of the Monte Carlo gambling interest about three months ago, and has added greatly to the business of Monte Carlo by the effect of the advertising. Previous to that M. Blanc and several Parisian newspaper men in his pay handled the press business through Far's instead of as now directly from Monte Carlo. Blanc claims that some of his journalist friends in Farts were too exceptional and persistent in their demands, and that one or more of them threatened to effect the closing of his establishment unless their demands were compiled with.

Mrs. McKee is a comely woman, with dark hair and eyes and a fine form. She lived in a beautiful cottage with her husband and her one child. Her husband idolised her, and their life seemed bright and happy. Mrs. Wimpel lived next door. The cause of the crime is not exactly known. The theory of the prosecution is that Mrs. McKee owed Mrs. Wimpel $300, which she had borrowed and had given a note for. She knew she could not meet the note when it was due, and in getting Mrs. Wimpel out of the way expected to get out of paying it. Mrs. Dietz, Mrs. Wimpel and Mrs. McKee played cards on the sly, and Mrs. McKee lost heavily to Mrs. Wimpel.

TTEMPT AT WHOLESALE MURDER AT A SCHO NEW ORLEANS, I.a., March 30.—A brutal attempt at a wholesale murder was made at New Zion Church, near Liberty, Miss., Saturday night, at a school examination and concert given at the Parson Hill School-house, where Mrs. Dixon (colored) had just closed a school for colored children. While the teacher and her pupils were singing for the entertainment of a large audience of colored people and quite a number of white persons, and the improvised auditorium was crowded with teachers, pupils and spectators, a double barreled shotgun, heavily charged with shot, was fired into the assemblage by some unknown miscreant, which, it is said, wounded fourteen persons, some of them seriously, others slightly. Baldwin Hays will probably lose both his eyes. The assassin has not yet been discovered.

THE SPOKANE PALLS TRAGEDY. NEW YORK, March 80.—The identity of the shot and instantly killed in a variety theater in Spokane Falls last Friday night, has been definitely settled. Her name was Mabel De-Bablan and she was a very well-known burlesque performer. She had appeared in farce comedies, light operas, etc., in a number of New York theaters and she has also traveled extensively. She was an attractive-looking woman, a fair singer and a dashing actress. Her husband was the actor known as W. Paul Bown, and he died in this city not many months ago while playing an engagement at Koster & Bials. Miss DeBablan subsequently joined the Mabel Francis Burlesque Co. with which she travelled through the West. She had since been playing occasional engagements in the vaudeville houses in that part of the country.

Miss DeBabian's life had been romantic and its tragic end was not unlooked for. A few years ago, in a fit of jealousy which she attributed to her husband's actions, she attempted suicide while playing at a watering resort in New Jersey. She swallowed poison, but took either too much or too little and so her attempt was unsuccessful. The Spokane Falls people who have imagined that the murdered woman is Nina Heyward are mistaken. Miss Heyward is not a variety actress and she has never appeared at the theater where the shooting occurred. Besides she is known to be alive and in the East at the present.

CINGINNATI, March 30.—Almost the entire night the detective force of Cincinnati and a squad of police have been working on a mysterious case. About 6:30 p.m. a half dozen shots were heard in a house on George street. A policeman found a crowd in the street, and a colored man informed him that three girls had been shot by a drummer. At the time a telephone message from an unknown man asked for a patrol for three wounded girls, giving the street, but the number was not understood. The police are convinced that a tragedy has been enacted, and it was determined to make a careful search of every house. Outside of a bloody handkerchief found in a gutter nothing has been learned.

OTTAWA, Ontario, March 30.—It costs the ortawa, ontario, marca su, it costs the tax-payers of Canada a nice little sum to keep up the regal court of the Governor-General of Ottawa. The Torento Telegram, after a searching investigation, is of the opinion that this expensive luxury could well be dispensed with and has taken the initiative step to bring about the necessary reform. The Telegram, which paper is of strong Conservative leaning, says: "The noble occupant of Rideau Hall is perhaps the most fortunate man in America—specially where his expenses are concerned. He was for years bookkeeper of the a good reputation in the real estate city is not definitely known, but on the 14th of March, the day he disappeared, he wrote Mr. Tiernan a note, telling him that a com plication of disagreeable circumstances made life so disagreeable here that he had grown weary of it and was going to leave. He also mentioned in his note that draft, however, was not in the nature of a defalcation. Lancaster has been playing the races for some time, though it is not known that he bet any very large sums. Mr. Fitzgibbons, Dick Lancaster's brother-in-law, says that the young man did not live happily with his wife, and it was known that his disapproval of many of his father's actions made their relations unpleasant. These are probably the disagreeable circumstances to which he referred.

"Did the races have anything to do with his going?"

"I think probably they had something to do with it. His account was overdrawn, but not over $1,200, and that was not at all in the nature of an embezzlement. We paid him a salary, and we had permitted him to overdraw his account. That amount of $1,200 was draw his account. That amount of $1,200 was the accumulation of several years, and I always had an idea that if he got ahead he could pay it off, or some day we would raise his salary so as to wipe it out. 'No," she replied, "I sold out the goods last week, but I do not know anything about the cause for the sale. I noticed that Mrs. Lancaster was not present. I know that Mrs. Lancaster had been considering disposing of the goods for at least a month before they were sold. I went out there four or five times during the preceding month to find out what she was going to do. At one time she proposed to store them and then she made up her mind to sell them, but changed again, two or three times, in fact, before she finally determined to sell them. At none of my visits to the house did I see Mr. Lancaster. I did not see him at all in the whole affair, and I thought it somewhat strange, but I heard no intimation that he had gone away. If that is true Mrs. Lancaster certainly concealed it well, for she did not give any evidence that any such thing had occurred. She was in the store this morning and told me that her parents were very sorry she had sold her furniture, for they thought she would have done better to store it, but she looked well and said nothing about her husband going away."

of her old lover, but they, nevertheless, believe that she has learned of the fact in some way unknown to them.

AGREAT CRIMINAL TRIAL.

Parts papers have given long accounts this week of the trial in the Department Tarnet-Garrone of M. Sahue, who in a burst of jealous fury last December killed his wife and his two young children. The testimony at the trial showed that he had made his wife's life miserable by his unreasonable and causeless jealousy, and that she had finally been forced by his crueity to leave him and take refuge with her parents. The couple was separated two years ago when a reconciliation was patched up between them, but their lives afterward were always disturbed by bitter quarrels. Finally last December the husband met his wife on the street with an infant in her arms and leading another by the hand. He had a gun in his hands and at once began firing. The child Mme. Sahuc was leading was his first victim. The unhappy mother then endeavored to save herself from the maddened husband, but Sahuc followed her, and shooting again and again mother and infant received fatal wounds. The assassin next turned madly on his victims lying in the street, and drawing a revolver fired shot after shot into their dead bodies. He then re entered his house, where he left his weapons, and returning tranquilly to the street recounted to passersby what he had done. A strong effort was made on his trial, which attracted great attention, and was very largely attended, to prove that he was insane and belonged to a family subject to insanity. The Judge, however, was not moved by the arguments of his counsel and instructed the jury to bring a verdict of guilty. Nevertheless, in spite of his lastructions, the jury added a recommendation to mercy, which was nnheeded by the judge, and the brutal murderer was sentenced to the galleys for life. A curious fact is noted that the assemblage broke out into noisy protests when the sentence was pronounced and the jury, on leaving the court-house, received an ovation from the crowd

ATRUNK MYSTERY.

The end of a very peculiar case, which in some of its details resembles the Phillipsen case, in which the murderer's victum was packed in a barrel of lime shipped to America, has just been reached in France. The discovery of this crime dates back to last October, when there was a sale of unclaimed packages left at the railroad station at ivry, Among the packages was an old trunk which, when it was opened by the purchaser was found to contain the mortified remains of an infant, still having about its neck the cord with which it had been strangled. The trunk containing the remains had been sent originally from Paris to an imaginary address in Bordeaux. The consignee naturally had never claimed the trunk, which was returned to the station at Ivry to be disposed of at the annual sale of unclaimed packages.

The researches of the police, which were at once begun, disclosed some curious facts. They learned that the trunk had-been traveling about from March 31, 1889. Starting from Paris, it went first to Aurellic, where it was claimed by a young servant girl named Jeanne Buchet, who gave a certain address in Faris. Following up these clues, it was found that the girl had been employed as a in Paris. Following up these clues, it was found that the girl had been employed as a found that the girl had been employed as a servant at a country house in Clavieres, and that she gave birth to the child then. Further investigation showed that she had strangled the infant immediately after its birth, and had concealed its body three months in the drawer of a bureau. This had happened during the absence of her employers. On their return she started the trunk with its ghastly contents on its travels, always keeping watch of its movements. She was employed in several cities after that time and finally went to America to seek her fortune. This she does hot seem to have found, and she returned to France just in time to allow the clues found by the police to be fastened on her. At her trial, which has just been finished, she confessed the various details of her efforts to rid herself of the trunk, but the jury in an excess of sympathy, nevertheless, brought in a verdict of acquittal, basing their verdict on the testimony of medical experts who deposed that after the expiration of four years it was impossible to determine whether the child had been born alive, and that, therefore, she was not guilty of the crime of infanticide.

The coke troubles have assumed a new phase and now threaten to develop into a war between the operators and labor organizations. Mr. Frick stated to-day that heretofore he had not antagonized labor, but in the future, he did not propose to stand idly by and see his property destroyed. He claims the men are satisfied with the scale of wages he offered, but that the labor leaders will not permit them to return to work, as their positions depend upon the success of the strike. A dynamite bomb was set off at West Letzenring and the men notified not to go to work.

The Leith works, near Uniontown, were raided and the workmen put to flight. The labor leaders are trying to allay the excitement, as other raids are feared.

Washington has no prettier spectacle to offer visitors from January to December than the thousands of happy little girls and boys who meet on the lawns around the Executive Mansion every Easter Monday, and spend the day rolling eggs of every conceivable color down the sloping banks of the old-fashioned mounds and in all the other cutdoor apports known to little people. It if a sight worth coming a long distance to see, and there are always about as many grown folks as children in attendance. But the recent storms have left the ground so thoroughly scaked and soft that it would be dangerous to health as well as destructive to the lawn to have the children play upon it now. The egg rolling has therefore been postponed until Saturday, and every child in the city is hoping for a week of warm sunshine so that the lawn may be dry and firm that day.

THE WEEK OPENS WITH SEVERAL IM-PORTANT TRANSACTIONS.

Property A Prominent West End Cor-ner Sold for $19,000—A Hole Sells for

The railroad companies who have been the eaviest buyers of property during the past year are acquiring more land for term the property needed for such purposes had been already secured, but the fact is a good deal more is wanted. Options taken some time aggregating in value nearly $300,000 are pending between the respective owners and representatives of the railway companies who hope to secure more realty in the same localities. The options taken nave yet a month or more to run, but the fact of the existence of such papers is kept a profound secret, and so is the location of the property. The owners have no idea for whom the options were obtained or for what use the ground is ultimately intended. If they did, what they know would soon become public in-formation and values in the section which will bornation and values in the section which will be benefited by the consummation of the op-tions and improvements to follow would be so greatly enhanced as to seriously interfere with the carrying out of the enterprise. In all probability the property desired is either in the Mill Creek valley or in North St. Louis east of Broadway. THE PULLWAN CAR SHOP.

It is now positively asserted that the Pullman Palace Car shops recently destroyed by fire are to be rebuilt, and the supposition in real estate circles is that while a purchase may not have been effected, yet the has really decided upon the site it intends to buy for the new building site. At the old site on Twenty-second and Ran-dolph streets, the company had a front-

With the destruction of the buildings on that site an attempt was made to purchase the whole of the remaining reprise of the block. hole of the remaining portion of the block, but it is said that project has failed owing to the recent sale of a part of the desired realty to a party who holds the key to the situation, and who refuses to sell unless he is paid a fabulous price. Other places which the Pullman Co, has been looking at with a view to buying are the Cot-ton Compress property west of Grand ave-nue, near Chouteau, the old Red Stocking Base Ball Park on Compton avenue, close to the tracks in the Mill Creek Valley, the Rankin property on Theresa avenue, near the Missouri Pacific Railway tracks, and also groundowned by Walter Taylor, situated between the Pacific and 'Frisco Railways, beyond Grand avenue, where the old stock yards used to be located. In any event, whichever piece the company. In any event, whichever piece the company buys, it is said that more than three times as large a site is wanted than was covered by the old buildings, where employment was given to 200 hands. When the new industry is in operation it is anticipated that at least five hundred men will be employed there.

The property fronts 160 feet on Delmar avenue and 180 on King's highway. At the corner there is a two-story stone front building used for a salcon, grocery store and dwelling. Next comes a wagon yard. Then comes two one-story brick houses used for shops, and next to that is a two-story brick dwelling. Mr. McDonald says the present income from the premises amounts to $1,420 a year. This he intends to increase by the construction of improvements on a $0-foot vacant space fronting on Delmar avenue, and upon a 70-foot vacant space facing King's highway.

A RACE WAR. Trouble Threatened Between Whites and Blacks in Oklahoma.

KINGPISHER, Oklahoma, March 30.—A race war of no mean proportions is threatened in this section. Several nights since a party of white men made a ride through the part of the country party of white men made a ride through the part of the country occupied by negro farmers and threatened them with punishment if there was any more petty stealing from the whites. The negroes did not appear to be much alarmed at the threat and told the regulators that they would have a hard time of it if they attempted any rough treatment. Subsequently the Mayor of this place received a communication signed "The Committee of Safety," which stated that if violent hands are laid on any colored man without authority of law, the colored race would go to his assistance, and if they were persecuted too far the town of Kingdsher would be reduced to ashes. There is great excitement over this threat.

Dr. Manden Reports to the Alliance Chat he Closing of the Saloons on Sunday Is icable at the Present Time-A Attack on Catholicism by

At 11 o'clock this morning the Ministerial Alliance was called to order by Rev. Dr. Masden, the President. There was only a moderate attendance. Rev. O. A. Barthol-omew, who was elected President of the arose to make an explanation of his action.

producally and mentally, one day's restout of each seven. It was for this reason that he opposed the Sunday paper. It recalled the work of the week and was therefore, according to his opinion, hurtful.

"The present Sunday should be and really is a civil institution, which this State has made it. Vital consequences will follow if the law is not enforced, and the people must protest. No business should be done on that day. The State is bound morally to close every business, particularly the bar-rooms, which outlaws the Government, both morally and religiously. This State has good Sunday laws, and all that is needed is their enforcement." A civil Sunday was wanted, in his opinion. They should all get together and do what they can.

Rev. Dr. Rhodes of St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran Church called upon the chairman of the Sunday committee for a report of the 100 committee. Rev. Dr. Marden explained, on behalf of the committee, that it had examined the statutes and found plenty of laws to enforce Sunday observance, that public sentiment was against it. Dr. Marsden said that the enforcement was not "Impossible but

Dr. Masden asichairman then diplomatic ally closed the discussion by calling upon Rev. J. G. White for a few remarks. Rev. White spoke for some twenty minutes and gave a brief outline of what he was doing.

gave a brief outline of what he was doing.

TO SATE THE NATION.

"Some years ago," said Rev. White, "I became convinced that this nation and its free institutions were in danger from the inroads of Catholicism. The nation's existence is to-day threatened by this monarchial institution; the free schools are cursed, and parents of the children threatened with eternal perdition if the parochial schools are not patronized. The Catholics are attempting as the first movel to take the Bible out of the schools, and then will come the demand for church supervision, educational matters. I say these are the achings of the Catholic Church, and they farther. They propose to destroy the ligious liberties of this country, and they are not forestalled inally winding up with Romanism dominan they are not forestalled their lared object will be accomplished. They ns, our institutions and beliefs. There is question of the drift of all this. It means the domination of papacy unless the people awake to the knowledge that they are being hoodwinked into believing that Catholicism is harmless, when in reality it is the most hoodwinked into believing that Catholicism is harmless, when in reality it is the most dangerous foe which Americans have. I have concluded to devote the remainder of my natural life to the exposition of Catholicism and its secrets. They are issuing literature which modest people cannot read without blushing. I have the books here, and any man, be he Catholic or Protestant, is free to examine them. I hereby challenge any exponent of Catholicism to go upon the platform in St. Louis and discuss the issues at stake. Heretofore in several different cities of the Union, it has been impossible to ge' any of the priests to meet me in open discussion. I declare they dare not! They cannot answer the arguments made against their religion; they dare not let the people see that they are trying to secure political power in this country. If the Catholics are not seeking to perpetuate papacy by a grand raid upon the institutions of the United States, why do they remain silent when the charge is made openly, through the press, from the pulpit and the platform. It is my matured determination to remain in this city until I have awakened the people to a full consciousness of what is going on. Tomorrow evening I will lecture in the hall at Jefferson avenue and Market street, and Wednesday evening will appear at North St. Louis Turner Hall. Everybody is invited to attend."

MINISTERS TAKE NO ACTION.

Contrary to what was expected, no resolution indorsing the work of Rev. White was introduced, adjournment being taken immediately after the termination of the gentleman's address. He distributed amongst hose present tracts and circulars containing what Rev. White says are translations of parts of the Catholic faith, as the prests are instructed to teach it. At the North St. Louis rurner Hall Wednesday evening, Rev. White mays it is his intention to expose "The Fallaties of the Confessional," to-morrow evening the subject being "The Effect of Catholicsm Upon the Public School System."

The opening of the third day's session the preliminary hearing of George W. Dash nan and Midwife "Lou" Hotson was marked by the usual crowding of the Court of Criminal Correction at 2 o'clock this afternoon The gathering of interested spectators was, it that were possible, larger than ever before. Miss Edith Inman was the first witness who took the stand. She testified that she was that on Jan. 27 and for some time before and hoe store, where Dashman was employed that Mrs. Hotson frequently visited the Mc-Donald store and that she would have long Donald store and that she would have long conversation with Dashman, that she was there two or three days before Laura Fitts' death; that Dashman told witness that he knew Mrs. Hotson before her marriage; that Mrs. Hotson bought a rug there, and that witness wrapped it up and sent it to her address at 2805 Market street, and that Dashman paid for it in two payments.

Miss Inman also testified that Mr. Fitts visited the store the morning after Laura's disappearance

Mr. Fitts visited the store the morning after Laura's disappearance and asked Dashman where his daughter was that he went to the telephone and after wards returned and said that she was then on his way home. He also testified that Laura frequently visited the store and had long talks with Dashman and that the last time she was there they seemed to be angry at one another. This was a few days before ner death.

A SCENE IN COURT.

On the cross-examination of Miss Inman, Attorney Bass asked whether she had not been discharged from McDonald's for a shortage in her cash account; and also dismissed from Barr's for dishonesty.

Gov. Johnson arose and pronounced such questions as indecent and unprofessional and demanded that the witness be protected from such gross insults.

such gross insults.

The large audience in the court-room mani-tested its approval by cheers and stamping of teet, and it took six deputy sheriffs to quell the disturbance.

Among the witnesses yet to be examined are Mrs. Hurst, who keeps a disreputable house at 2011 Chestnut street, and Katle Mosel, one of her boarders. They will both testify that Mrs. Hotson was at 2011 Chestnut street from 11 until 4 o'clock next morning on the night that Laura Fitts remained away from home, which is in contradiction to the statement Mrs. Hotson made at the inquest, that she was down town with a gentleman friend that night until about midnight, when she returned home. Mrs. Hurst will also testify that Mrs. Hotson afterward when she returned home. Mrs. Hurst will also testify that Mrs. Hotson afterward met her and told her that she had performed an operation on Laura Fitts, claiming, however, that the girl's death was not due to that operation, but to the one subsequently performed by the doctors. Miss Mosel will corroborate Mrs. Hurst's testimony on this matter, and both will testify that Mrs. Hotson was at their place not only on the Wednesday night that Laura Fitts remained away from home, but on several other nights, including home, but on several other nights, in the preceding night, Tuesday night, and that she remained that night all night long, as was her custom when she met her gentlemen friends there. She remained until only 4 o'clock that Wednesday night or Thursday morning, because she had to hurry home to wait on a girl, one of her patients. Mrs. Hotson said that she would have to take the sick girl home in a cab, and one was accordingly ordered. Katle Mosel went home with her, but they walked, the cab being ordered for a later hour. On the way Mrs. Hotson talked about the same matter and Miss Mosel has no doubt that the girl referred to by Mrs. Hotson Mr. McDonald has given a line on his plan of action in his severe cross-examination of Dr. A. V. L. Brokaw and Dr. Luts, both of whom were placed on record with technical reference to the condition of Laura Fitts both reference to the condition of Laura Fitts both before and after death. It is the general impression at the Four Courts that Mr. McDonald hopes to be able to in this way establish that the criminal operation performed on the girl must have been done before the night of Jan. 28 to have occasioned the results apparent both before find after death. He will try to show that Laura went to Mrs. Hotson while suffering from the effects of the operation in order to obtain medical treatment at her hands and that any action the midwife may have taken was nothing more than that to which any reputable physician would, under the circumstances, resort. He will then hedge by endeavoring to establish that the girl's death was due not sician would, under the circumstances, resort. He will then hedge by endeavoring to establish that the girl's death was due not to malpractice, but to the operation of laparotomy performed by Dr. A. V. L. Brokaw on Saturday night and will in all probability attack both Dr. A. V. L. Brokaw and his father, Dr. F. V. L. Brokaw. For this purpose it is claimed that he will place on the witness stand, a prominent surgeon who, it is alleged, will endeavor to cast discredit upon the manner in which the dead girl was medically treated, It is also more than probable that a Four Courts official will be brought forward to swear that Dr. Brokaw stated to him that Laura Ritts had given the name of a reputable North St. Louis physician as the man who had criminally operated on her. So much be intimated in his cross-examination of Dr. Brokaw, at which time the young surgeon positively denied his having made such a statement. The case of the defendants is a desperate one and desperate efforts may be the attorney's resort.

An article is going the rounds of the newspapers of the district to the effect that the Democratic nominees are such good men that the Republicans are about ready to let the election go by default. The Democratis have nominated good men, there is no gain-saying that, and the district is Democratic on a full vote, but therein also lies the Democratic weakness over-confidence. The parties who found the body discovered it just in time to prevent its being burned and charred beyond recognition. It was lying in the midstpor a fire made of logs and dry wood, and evidently kindled by the suicide himself. The fire was burning brightly, and before the body was rescued from the fiames the lower limbs had been burned in places, the fiesh being charred to the bone. Portions of the clothing were also burned. The weapon he had used to kill himself was a 38-caliber buildog revolver, and to make sure of his work he had thrust the weapon into his mouth. The bullet passed through the roof his work he had thrust the weapon into his mouth. The bullet passed through the roof of the mouth and crashed into his brain. A hunter who crossed the river yesterday and was not seen to return, is said to have resembled the suicide. The hunter had a shotgun and shooting jacket, while neither of these articles could be found at the scene of the tragedy, but a little colored boy who had shown the hunter the way into the fields said the suicide was the same man. A gold watch and chain and 40 cents in money were found on the body. The clothes were of fine blue cloth, custom-made, and bore the trademark of an Evansville (Ind.) tailor. The suicide was a man of about 30 years, 5 feet 8 or 9 inches in height, had sandy hair and mustache, and was of light complexion.

Fire in a Shoe Shop.

The Evangelical Work of Rev. Newsome at Westerville, O.

Westerville, O., March 20.—A month ago Rev. Mr. Newsome, a young colored minister, began protracted meetings in the little colored church here. So extraordinary was his eloquence and the effects on the congregation that white visitors began to crowd the little church, and many of both races have since professed conversion. Soon the church would not hold the people, and the eloquent colored man was invited to the Evangelical Church, the largest white church in the city. This has been crowded nightly for a month. A few minutes before 1 o'clock this 1 ng, fire in the shoe shop of W. D. Strick erty is owned by Mrs. B. E. Mulially. An Exciting Scene on the Curb This Afternoon.

The Commercial Board is where the Merchants' Exchange pit traders hold a "curb" for the purpose of trading in privileges. This afternoon the traders were disturbed by the coming together of a couple of brokers who tried to break one another's countenances. The contestants were John T. Miliken, a light weight, and Eugene H. Moore, a feather weight. Mr. Moore, who is called "Jumbo," in recognition of his size, stepped on Mr. Milligan's foot, Mr. Milliken said: "Say, who are you shovin'?" Mr. Moore made a remark reflecting upon Mr. Milliken and Mr. Milliken smashed Mr. Moore in the nose. Before Mr. Moore could come back the crowd separated them and the "scrap" was at an end. There has been bad blood between the two for some time over an oat trade, so Mr. Moore claims.

TIME TO TURN A NEW LEAF.

The Mayor's Council ticket and platform vere gotten up with an eye single to harmony in the spoils-grabbing and franchise-peddling fragernity. There is nothing in either to offend or alarm any of that guild. No suspicion of a reforming tendency attaches to any part of the outfit. There is not a trace of doctrine in it-no hint that there is such a thing as a principle applicable to city affairs and worthy of recognition in the platform of a municipal ticket.

Harmony among the bosses-harmony between the Mayor and the Council in pending $8,500,000 a year of the city's oney, and in disposing of fat places to friends with a talent for frying out the fat -harmony between the Mayor and the Governor, and between the ruling branches of the City Government and the corporations that are willing to pay privately for avors, but averse to heavy blackmailthis sort of harmony is the whole scheme of municipal policy outlined in the ticket and platform the Mayor made. To call it icoratic is to asperse every Democratic principle and burlesque everything in the shape of truly Democratic methods.

St. Louis has had entirely too much that sort of harmony. It has made some of her citizens very rich at the expense of the others. With less of it she might have owned $22,000,000 worth of gas plant, paid for with her money but now under private ownership, and she might have been now in receipt of a magnificent revenue from street railway and other franchises, granted without care for her interests by "harmonious" municipal administrations in

Instead of such "harmony" it is time for voters to turn over a new leaf and give their city a Council of business guardians, free from obligation to any combination of politicians or ax-grinders a Council of business men chosen to look out for the city's interests only in every pending neasure. The Independent municipal ticket will give us such a Council and put an end to the reign of the boodlers.

THE only question about the election of the Independent municipal ticket turns on the size of the total vote polled. Under the Australian ballot system there can be no gang-voting, and the independent voter will be encouraged by the feeling that his vote will count for more than i ever did under the old system. There will be more independent voting than at any ormer election, and no close observer of public sentiment believes that the total cast for both of the party tickets will exeed half of the registered vote of the city. Neither one of them will get more than half of its party's usual voting strength. owing to the widespread dissatisfaction of Republicans and Democrats with their espective tickets and with the methods that produced them. If the dissatisfied all vote for the Independents, the election of the latter will be assured. In any event, half of the voters who will refuse to vote for either of the ring tickets will be enough to elect the other.

FROM all accounts PARNELL will be as badly beaten in North Sligo as he was in why he is making the contest and making it in a way to provoke as much turbulence as possible. His methods plainly reveal a consciousness on his part that the Irish people are against him. But they reveal on election day between the downing of as plainly a purpose not only to divide nanism and the downing of Democracy | the Home Rule partly into two irreconcilable factions, but to increase and confirm the fear of the English mind that Home Rule in Ireland will be nothing but another name for riot and disorder. DAVITT understands the role of wrecker which PARNELL is now playing as a tool of the Ministry, and the opponents of PAR-NELL will do well to act upon DAVITT's advice, laying aside their blackthorns nd leaving all the violence and suppression of free speech to the other side.

Party Men Will Have Every Voter Out on Election Day.

The local party machines are figuring largey on the vote they expect will be brought out in the various wards where there are exciting The candidates for the House are working with might and main, and they count on getting out a big party vote at the election, which occurs a week from to-morrow. The committees are encouraging these ward contests, on the theory that those who go out to vote for House of Delegates candidates will vote the party ticket for Council. The registration amounts exactly to 67,010, and the party leaders predict that at least 40,000 will vote at leaders predict that at least 40,000 will vote at the election. Last November the books showed a registration of 62,000, of which 46,000 voted. This was less than the leaders predicted, but they declare that it will not fall below 40,000 this time, even though it is an off year city election. The 5,000 increase in the registration is due largely to the activity of the candidates for the House of Delegates. For a month or more prior to the closing of the registration, these candidates were actively engaged swelling the registration, and those who failed to get nominations they sought, now feel that they had their labor for their pains.

The fact that the party bosses count on the candidates for the House of Delegates to pull votes for the Council nominees is significant and illustrates the necessity of every citizen opposed to the machines turning out early election day. The heelers and ward workers opposed to the machines turning out early election day. The heelers and ward workers will certainly voice; they always do, and they will be more anxious than ever to perform that service at the coming election.

Both of the Central Committees are guessing just at present as to the strength the Independents will muster at the polls. While some of those given to bluster declare that the ticket is "not in it," to use their lan guage, there are other committeemen who take an entirely different view of the matter. Secretary McGrew of the Republican City

Secretary McGrew of the Republican City Committee said this morning that the Independent movement was puzzling all the politicians, and that it would keep them rattled until after the election. "They are working hard," he said, "and all we can do is to wait and watch for the results. Our committee is up and doing and we are confident of winning."

The Independents' Work

The Executive Committee of the Independ ents has in press a book which will contain a little more than half the names which have een signed to the petitions. The signatures ow number more than nine thousand. Only bout five thousand will be classified, and these alone will appear in the publication but a second edition will be issued giving them all. The book will be out in a day or two and 80,000 of them will be issued, so that they may be distributed in every home in the they may be distributed in every nome in the city of St. Louis, that every one may learn how strong the movement has grown and that it is supported not by any class of men exclusively but by "all sorts and conditions of men." The Independdent movement finds its chief support among the working classes and the men who have given some moments' thought to the conduct of municipal affairs, and it is to show this that the publication will be so generally cir-culated. Additional names are coming in like a flood every day, and as the election comes nearer the strength of the Independent movement becomes more and more apparent. As an indication of the manner in which it is regarded, the following letters in reply to hotifications of appointment on the mittee of One Hundred are printed:

in manifipal matters in entire independence of national issues is the only way to secure good government for our cities.

And while the strength of the independent movement continues to grow and increase, the knives in the two old parties are being sharpened. The Republican workers are striving to secure the indorsement and election of Comfort, Vogel and Grassmuck, and the Democratic politicians are expressing the opinion that they will be elected and betting on some for them. But nothing is being done of Ripley, Haynes and Hammerstein. They are simply on the ticket to give it respectability; they will be knifed and the Republican machins vote will go to the other three and three Democrats. Neither of the old parties is fighting the other. The party organs and party speakers are not attacking the other party. That might be done in an ordinary campaign, but the interest of the combine would not permit it where a third party is in the field, and therefore the guns of both parties are being leveled at the Independents, their common and dangerous

ntic Conspiracy to Obtain a Dowe -Who Planned It?

Reviser Barker of the Twenty-sixth Ward believes in a careful revision of the registration books. Saturday evening last, just before the Board of Revision concluded the inspection of the lists, Mr. Barker called attention to the fact that his two sons had changed their residence since the last election and moved that their names be stricken from the books. His sons, it appears, had falled to transfer. Mr. Barker was joked about his action and was finally asked what ticket his boys were in the habit of voting, and when he replied that they were stanch Democrats, the Democratic revisers argued that Mr. Barker's action looked strange indeed. The Republicans then took the matter up and applauded Mr. Barker's action, assuring him that his sons deserved to be deprived of their votes for being Democrats.

Though the board was in session ten days it did not strike off more than 300 names. It was deemed unnecessary to make a precinct canvass on account of the thorough overhauling given the registration last fall. to morrow evening at Stolle's Hall, Thir teenth and Biddle streets. The matter was then referred to Lawyer George Ter$illizer, since dead, and as Hoar did not make any fight over the matter the full amount of the claim was allowed. Hoar then went to work and had the judgment assigned to a man named Gershom Rusling, a personal friend, for the purpose of assisting to get back the property given to his wife. Throughput all these proceedings James W. Daskam has appeared very prominently, and so a sketch of his career is in order. He was born in Stamford, Conn., fifty-three years ago. His grandfather, Capt. William Daskam, served under Lafayette. James inherited able business abilities from his father, Benj. J. Daskam, who during his lifetime was a prominent factor in business and political matters in his native town. James, when quite young, secured a position in New York in a prominent broker's office. Two years later he returned to Stamford and became a clerk in his father's store. Finding his not exciting enough, he turned recruiting agent and secured substitutes for drafted soldiers at the time the civil war was in progress. His associations at this time were necessarily not of the best, and he contracted habits that developed later into intemperance and kindred fauits.

At times when a more than ordinary streak of luck would favor him he would recognize the event by going off on a prolonged spree, leaving business in charge of his clerks. Several years later he reformed his habits and married Miss Searles of Norwalk, Conn. They had two girls, both of whom are now nearing womanhood and are Great enthusiasm was manifested over the prospects of winning the strike on the report being circulated that a large number of supplier of strike on the report being circulated that a strike on the report being circulated that a large number of employing painters stood ready to give the men what they wanted as soon as the request was made. The strike this year, it is understood, will be managed in the same way as the strike of 1889, when journeymen painters were sent to work with employing painters who agreed to pay the wages as soon as the agreement was signed by them. Two years ago the journeymen painters had but 200 supporters in the Union, while they now have over 600 members, out of 800 or 900 journeymen in this city. The painting business in this city opens up about April 1, and the men are going to take advantage of this fact to bring the employers to terms, knowing they have made contracts ahead, and will have to pay forfeits unless they are carried out.

A member of the Brotherhood, speaking for his union to-day, said:

M'CARTHY AND DIXON, WHO FIGHT TO-MORROW NIGHT.

Hall-Fitzsimmons Match—A Turf-nan's Dream Which Was Sadly lealised—The Base Ball Situation in Incinnati—Sporting News in General.

Before the Troy Cribb Club to-morrow night Cal McCarthy of New York and George Dixon, Cal McCarthy of New York and George Dixon, colored, of Boston, will battle for the 115-pound championship of the world, and the contest should prove one of the best that has ever taken place between featherweights. After the Board of Police Commissioners of Troy had instructed that the fight be stopped the club obtained an injunction in the courts to prevent the police from interfering and then the Police Commissioners instructed the Superintendent of Police to obey the injunction, which means that the fight is to be permitted. Neither man has ever been Superintendent of Police to obey the injunction, which means that the fight is to be permitted. Neither man has ever been whipped and when they met before they fought a seventy-two-round draw. McCarthy-broke his arm in that battle. Both men proved very evenly matched, but McCarthy had the benefit of more experience. Since then Dixon has defeated with the greatest ease Nunc Wallace, the English champion, and Johnny Murphy, the clever feather-weight instructor of Harvard. He will probably win to-morrow night, but it should be a long and hard battle. The colored boy is now slightly below weight, while McCarthy is only a pound and a naif overweight. Dixon is a slight favorite in the betting. A telegram from Boston this morning reads:

Tom O'Rourke, Dixon's trainer, said yesterday: "George is fit to fight for his life. This morning, after ah eight-mile run, he weighed 118% pounds and will be at weight all light at the appointed time. We leave to have wafternoon for Troy, and have no fears as by the result. A letter I received last night from Troy gives me every reason to believe thoe he fight will take place without interferities. Dixon is confident of winning."

The Astoria Club has asked that each man deposit $2,500 with it as a guarantee of good faith. In case he fails to put in an appearance he is to forfeit $1,500 of this to the other man and the other $1,000 to the club. Hall has made his case it as $2,500 middle to the club. other $1,000 to the club. Hall has made his deposit of $2,500 in Portland, but Fitzsimmons has not yet put up his money. He insists that the club post a zuarantee of $5,000 with either Parson Davies, Dick Roche or Mose Gnast, and says he will post a forfeit of $1,000 with one of these men to guarantee his appearance. The club says Fitzsimmons will have to deposit $1,000 with them to guarantee his appearance. Fitzsimmons also wants Hall to cover his deposit for a side bet.

KERRIGAN'S UNKNOWN OPPONENT. Tom McManus, the Lowell welterweight, who has suffered more defeats than any other man in his class, is the unknown that Patsy Kerrigan is to fight at Hot Springs, Ark. Kerrigan is to fight at Hot Springs, Ark., April 4, says the Boston Globe. It is advertised out there that they are to fight for $1,000 a side and gate receipts, but the sports are satisfied it is nothing but a "fake" arranged to get some of the dollars of the patients at the springs. The people at that place have been led to believe that the unknown is a New York fighter with a big record. McManus is now located at Gilleus Springs, while Kerrigan is at Sulphur Springs. McManus is no better than a sixth-rate fighter. He was whipped easily by Jimmy Carroll, Jack McGee and Jim Scully.

CHICAGO, March 30.—McNevin, the Minnesota pugliist, backed out of the fight which had been arranged to take place between him and Murphy Saturday night. Shortly before midnight more than one hundred sports arrived at the Suburban Hall engaged for the fight. While the men were dressing a couple of policemen came in and McNevin weakened. It was reported that the police would permit a glove fight, but McNevin's spine had been broken and the mill was declared off.

"It looks as though McAuliffe and McAuliffe. "It looks as though McAuliffe and Myers would not meet," he writes, "and I believe that the Troy Cribb Club or some other organization in good standing would offer us a purse worth fighting for. The gentleman who put up a forfeit to back me against an unknown last week did so without my authority, and I have no match on my nds. I have fought six times since I me McAuliffe, and won them all. Jimmy Carroll refused to fight me in San Francisco, and Austin Gibbons lately did the same, saying that $1,500 was not enough of a purse, although I was willing to accept the terms. I think I am entitled to another go with Mc-Auliffe, and you can bet I want the chance."

President Renau and President Von der Ahe yesterday completed all the final arrangements for putting the new club on its feet. They closed a contract with M. Marcus, a well-known contractor, to put up the new buildings and tu.n over the keys within twenty working days from the time the contract is begun. There were four bidders for the work, but the bid of Contractor Marcus, cailing for $12,000, was the lowest. This does not include grading or chairs in the grand stand. The new stands of the new park are very commodious and the designs pretty. They will be built in the shape of a horsestoe and will face the Ohio River. From them an elegant view of the Ohio will be had. Mr. Marcus, with a force of 100 men, will begin work on the fence and stands next Tuesday. THE TURF.

"Very few of the thousands who visit the races," said a well-known betting man the other day, "have any idea how lucky they are sometimes when they strike a winner. In nine cases out of ten the ordinary investor has nothing but his individual preference, has nothing but his individual preference, born of a fanced knowledge of a horse's abilities, to guide him in placing his money. The man who makes a business of backing the horses must be in possession of positive knowledge as to the owner's intentions, the loyalty of the jockey to his employer's interests in that particular race, in addition to a knowledge acquired by experience as to the horse's comparative experience as to the horse's comparative chance of winning, in which the distance of the race, weight carried and the condition of chance of winning, in which the distance of the trace, weight carried and the condition of the track are all given due consideration. Unless all these are satisfactory he will not invest a dollar, not even if he has in his possession for the purpose all of Jay Gould's money. With the outsider it is entirely different. He does not know all these things, and could not find them out if he tried. He simply places his money according to his judgment, or according to some tip, fancy or some freak or superstition, and wins or loses as the case may be. The practice of running horses in races for work or to swell the fields, and with no intention of trying for the race, has lessened the chances of the outsider striking a winner. But the practice of some owners in giving bookmakers money to lay for them against their own horses, especially when the horses are favorites, is something that so closely resembles highway robbery that a stop ought to be put to it. The practice is not at all a common one, but it is indulged in to a greater extent than even those who are aware of it imagine. In most cases such precautions are taken against a horse winning that the owner gets away with the job, but it sometimes happens that there is a slip between the cup and the lip."

A TURFMAN'S DREAM.

New York, March 20.—Joseph Thompson, the Australian bookmaker, who has just returned to New York from San Francisco, has always an inexhaustible fund of racing anecdotes at his command, and for hours will entertain a Hoffman House party with the stories of many and varied experiences on the turf. One striking incident related by him a few nights ago deeply impressed all who heard his graphic description of it. One night, in the course of the calebrated Ballarat meeting of '87, a party of leading racing men were seated at a table in the bar of the principal hotel in that city. The entries for the Melbourne cup of that year, just received, were being scanned with the customary eager interest and excited discussion. One of the company, a man of quiet and serious aspect, was the owner of Nimblefoot. "I had a funny dream the other night," he said suddenly, as he quietly puffed at his pipe. "I thought that Nimblefoot won the cup."

"Bet you £1,000 pounds to wine for the party that he does not," said Thompson.

"Done," replied Nimblefoot's owner: "and we'll have the wine how. But there is something more to be told, Nimblefoot certainly won easily in my dream, but the jockey wore a strip of crape on his sleeve."

"Oh, pooh," exclaimed another of the crowd, "that means that you will lose and that the jockey well go in mourning for your losses."

Nimblefoot won the cup, but when he passed the winning post the owner was in his grave. The jockey wore a strip of crape on his left sleeve. On the morning after the race, the window of Nimblefoot's owner'received a check for £1,000. The check bore Joseph Thompson's signature.

Jay Gould and the Missouri Pacific Road Charged With Trying to Buin the Windy City and Its Lines—Traffic Manage Leeds' Head Demanded. Chicage is considerably worked up over the nanner in which the Missouri Pacific & St.

Louis are taking away business from Chicago and its lines. It is charged up there that wicked Jay Gould is ruining the Chicago railroads. Mr. Gould's Missouri Pacific Road is not paying the slightest attention to the presidents' agreement, it is claimed and its manufacture and the presidents' agreement, it is claimed, and is manipulating and eutting rates whenever it has an opportunity to take traffic away from the Chicago roads. The Missouri Pacific is accused of cutting the rates on sugar between New York and Kansas City 8 cents per hundred pounds and it is stated that it is monopolizing the traffic in this line of goods. This same vicious road is charged with having had the rates in beer recently advanced and of their informing the prewers that it would continue to take freight recently advanced and of their informing the brewers that it would continue to take freight at the old rates. An arrangement has even been made by the Missouri Pacific road whereby iron is carried from Pittsburg by boat down the 'Ohio River to Cairo, where it is transferred to Goeld's Iron Mountain road, which takes it to St. Louis, whence it is shipped by the Missouri Pacific to the Missouri River points and further West. By this means the rate is reduced 5 cents per 100 pounds and Goeld's roads are getting the bulk of the iron shipments from Pittsburg. Now, just think of a railroad being guilty of this most helinous offense! But this is not all. The Missouri ffense! But this is not all. The Misso vided in a nice, quiet, peacable way among the Chicago-Council Bluffs roads, without troubling St. Louis roads at all with the cares troubling St. Louis roads at all with the cares and profits of sharing the business. To keep the traffic out of the jurisdiction of the Presidents' Association, most of the freight is taken to Memphis and Arkansas City, where it is given to the Richmond Terminal. How the Missouri Pacific can treat the generous Chicago lines so cruelly is beyond human comprehension. The Missouri Pacific is even monopolizing Texas traffic to the great detriment of Chicago, which at one time did a total business of $3 or $3 in a year with the Lone Star State.

$3 in a year with the Lone Star State. LISTEN TO THE TALE OF WOE. An article on the subject in the Chicago in and get all the business it can at the best rates obtainable.

AND, VERY AND.

There is something inexpressibly sad in a howl like that from Chicago. With a spirit of good Christian charity that was touching to behold the roads of that most honored and honorable city have by various tricks and artifices managed to monopolize almost the entire freight traffic between the East and points on the Missouri River and further west. Most of this traffic rightfully belonged to the St. Louis roads, but out of pure generosity and kindness of heart the Chicago lines looked after it. They have stolen this business for so many years that they finally worked themselves into a belief that it belonged to them—a belief by the way that is readily developed in all such cases by Chicago individuals and corporations. Now when the St. Louis roads are getting some of the business which rightfully belongs to them, the indignation of the Chicago roads and press knows no bounds. They are crying out for protection from the wicked Jay Gould and his St. Louis roads to save poor old Chicago and her lines from bankruptcy and ruin. It is indeed a and state of amins.

All this howl from the Chicago roads has been caused in a very simple manner. In deneral Freight Traffic Manager Leeds of the Missouri Pacific road they have met a man who has blocked the schemes they have been working on the St. Louis roads for so many years and resalisted in a preper manner.

Mr. Leeds has determined that St. Louis and SAD, VERY SAD.

St. Louis lines have suffered enough from unjust discrimination and he has determined that it shall stop. While St. Louis has had an arbitrary of 5 cents in her favor on Missouri River business which would naturally entitle her to a bulk of the traffic, it is a notorious fact that Chicago and Chicago lines have secured nearly all this trade. The reason for it was that the Chicago roads never lived up to this 5-cent arbitrary, but made the same tariff as the St. Louis lines, and as the rates to the East were lower to Chicago than to this point everything naturally went by way of the Windy City. Recently Mr. Leeds found that the Chithe rates to the East were lower to Chicago than to this point everything naturally went by way of the Windy City. Recently Mr. Leeds found that the Chicago lines were secretly cutting rates on the shipment of sugar to Missouri River points, so without saying a word to any of them, he gave the interstate Commerce Commission notice that the Missouri Pacific would reduce rates on sugar from the East to Missouri River points a cents per 100 pounds and the Chicago lines knew nothing of it until just before the five days that must intervene before the rate can take effect were about to expire. In the meantime, it is said that Mr. Leeds sailed in and made contracts and before the tricky men of the lakeside village could head him off he gobbled up all the business in sight. When the Chicago roads had learned how their trickery had recoiled on themselves, their indignation knew no bounds. They have filed complaint against Mr. Leeds , it is said, with the Presidents' Association and if he is found guilty he will under the rules of the association have to be discharged. Nobody believes for a moment, however, the Missouri Pacific will let go so valuable an official who did nothing but protect their interests, and the whole affair may result in breaking up the Presidents' agreement. Mr. Leeds' friends give the matter little thought, however, and say that he merely made an open rate similar to the secret rate the Chicago roads were giving, and that the association will not ask for his discharge.

Mr. Schweppe, the wholesale grocer, in discussing the howl set up by Chicago, remarked: "For once 8t. Louis has stirred up a kick. The railroads here have been standing up recently for their own and the city's rights, and we are getting the trade that thoughts and the area of the secret rate the chicago is the low set up by Chicago, remarked: "For once 8t. Louis has stirred up a kick. The railroads here have been standing up recently for their own and the city's rights, and we are getting the trade that marked: For once St. Louis has stirred up a kick. The railroads here have been standing up recently for their own and the city's rights, and we are getting the trade that should have always come here. It is absolutely ridiculous, however, to hear Chicago's yells. For years the roads there have practiced all sorts of tricks and discriminations in favor of that city and now that St. Louis is getting her just dues, the indignation of the Chicago people and roads knows no bounds." Ohicago has been complaining about St. Louis securing the Texas trade, but local business men say that Chicago never did any trade with Texas, except last year, when one of the Chicago roads issued free transportation to a lot of Texas merchants to Chicago and return and they did a little trading there. This city, however, is the natural market for Texas and the people of that State will always come here where that State will always come here wher their wants are understood and the good they desire are kept.

AGAINST CHURCH SOCIABLES. Dr. Carradine Announces His Intentio of Preaching on the Subject.

Rev. Dr. B. Carradine announced from Centenary pulpit, Sixteenth und Pine streets, yesterday that Sunday after next he would preach his first sermon in opposition to church sociables and entertainments, the first mention of which he made some weeks ago. In the course of his remarks he said when he came here be found 'Centenary $700 in debt, but that now, without sociables, there was no debt whatever hanging over in debt, but that now, without sociables, there was no debt whatever hanging over the congregation.

"Churches," he said, "which are continually giving sociables and entertainments are seldom out of debt. The trouble is that they are disobeying a Divine command—a command that is absolutely undeniable. Church entertainments and sociables, gotten up for revenue, are clearly un-Godlike, unmethodistic, and in direct opposition to biblical commands. There is one of our most prominent churches in the city which holds weekly sociables for no other purpose than to raise money. If they would only stop this kind of work and try and interest people in giving willingly and from their hearts, how much more correct things would be. What I have said must not be taken as personal, as the church is merely picked out as an example which exists in the Methodist denomination in this city, and precludes the necessity for going elsewhere for our examples. Once before I spoke in relation to the practice of giving entertainments, and referred to one that was to be held in St. John's Church. This is a question upon which a strong stand must of necessity be taken, and on Sunday, April 12, I will preach a sermon in relation to the matter which I hope the people who are indulging in these entertainments will come to hear."

Since Dr. Carradine first announced his intention to preach upon this subject he has received a number of anonymous letters

Since Dr. Carradine first announced his intention to preach upon this subject he has received a number of anonymous letters which have questioned his sincerity in the matter, which have determined him to preach the sermon at an early date. The doctor's bold stand on the matter, favoring as he does the abolishment of the church sociables entirely, holding that they do not come within the range of church action, and that they do not benefit a church financially, has created much interest, especially among the Methomuch interest, especially among the Methodists. The sermon will be preached in the

STREET CAR PROBLEMS.

DIFFICULTIES RAPID TRANSIT LINES ARE TRYING TO OVERCOME.

The Great Trouble Being Experienced in Getting a Brake for Trailers—Schweick-hardt Files His Bond—Jim Brennan will Not Be Appointed.

Several very interesting problems are nov occupying a good deal of the time and atten-tion of the street car men in this city. With the advent of electricity and cables as m new complications have presented themelves from sources entirely unexpected. The greatest difficulty so far encountered is the brake. A plan must be devised which will stop the car quickly and surely but not abruptly. With the single car this was not a very difficult task. The old-fashioned chain brakes acting on the wheels were found to work very well in ordinary weather and then the track brake, as it is called, was applied. This brake is merely a strip of wood shod with iron which can by means of a lever be applied to the rail acting on the principle of the plied to the rail acting on the principle of the old stage coach drag.

On one of the cable roads in this city a friction brake is used, but it is not popular because of the noise it makes. The momentum of the car is used to put on the pressure. A clutch is fixed on the axle of the car so that when desired it can be closed and a chain wound around the axle as it revolves. The rest of the cable roads all use the long-arm lever brakes and the track brake.

The difficulties in braking a single car were not many, but when the trail car was adopted the trouble began. With the trail car the couplings and brake connections have to be adjusted so as to give sufficient play going around curves. When this adopted the trouble began. With the trail car the couplings and brake connections have to be adjusted so as to give sufficient play going around curves. When this is done the brakes on both the front and hind car do not work together because of the slack which has to be allowed on the hind one. The object is now to find a brake which can be applied to both cars with uniform pressure and require for their application only one lever or handle. The street car men are now looking toward air and electricity to soive the problem for them. On two of the electric lines, the Lindell and the Union Depot, they are now trying experiments with pneumatic brakes. These are worked from storage tanks of air, which are pumped full by automatic mechanism applied on down grades. In conjunction with the brake they are using an air whistle instead of a gong.

On the Broadway and Olive street crossing of the two cable roads a rather peculiar difficulty was encountered. At that point the Olive street cable runs at its normal level, and the Broadway cable goes under, but when an Olive street train is within a few feet of the Broadway crossing it raises the rope high enough for the cable it is raised several inches off the pulleys so that when an Olive street train is within a few feet of the Broadway grip to strike it in passing. Great care has to be taken there to avoid a bad smash up, and the Broadway gripmen are instructed to raise their grips as high as they will go in making that particular crossing.

Another difficulty which is being experimented on is the crossing for the overhead wires, and a plan is being tried which will not let on a sudden shock as the trolly wheel strikes the current wire after making the crossing.

Conduit Controversy.

City Counselor Bell, President Burnet of the Board and Councilman Metcalf were in con-sultation this morning over the conduit or-dinance and the construction which might be suitation this morning over the conduit ordinance and the construction which might be put upon one clause in it. The Subway company, since it became the property of the Sellers-Butterworth-Drummond Gas Co., has broadened its scope and the plan is now to make it very comprehensive and apply it as a common carrier for electricity, cold air, gas, water, oll or anything else of the kind which can be carried through it. In the ordinance is a clause which gives the company the right to lay gas distributing mains, but does not state any conditions. After consulting for some time it was decided to add a paragraph refiricting the right of carrying gas pipes and providing that only those of companies regularly incorporated in the city could be placed therein.

Mr. Burnet, in speaking of the matter this morning, said: "We thought that we had better tie them down a little on this gas pipe business as they might be tempted to claim that the right to distribute gas gave them the right to make it." The ordinance is in the hands of the Council committee and the plans in the hands of the Board of Public Improvements.
